

SAVE THE "SPLASH"

The city council of Zaragoza (Spain) has planned to dismount a giant sculpture, representing a fluid in stress, that has become symbol of the city. The main point of the Splash piece lies in his current point of exhibit, a hollow 20 floors building that you can climb trough a system of ingenious ramps surrounding the 20 meters giant sculpture floating in the air.

We think that the combination of the building and this giant artistic fluid, has no equall or similar cultural concept, and the planned disassembling of the piece goes against art, beauty and creativity.

We ask you to join in the process of denouncing and stopping this nonsense.

Thanks
